EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

2. Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Kevin L. Daffer on 2-17-2005.

3. The application has been amended as follows: In claim 1 line 1, after "A system of software components" please insert -- "on a computer readable medium," --.

4. The claim now reads as follows:

1. (Currently Amended) A system of software components on a computer readable medium, which can be invoked during runtime by an application program running under an operating system to display a parent object and a child object, wherein the child object is displayed in accordance with the following background color inheritance order:

if a background color of the child object is declared, the child object is displayed with the declared background color;

if the background color of the child object is not declared, and a background color is globally defined for the system of components, the child object is displayed with the globally defined background color, which is independent of the operating system; and if the background color of the child object is not declared, and the background color setting is not globally defined for the system of components, the child object is displayed with the background color of the parent object.

REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

6. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

7. The examiner considered the Applicant's Appeal Brief filed on 11-09-04, and after updated search, no prior art of record has taught that which was taught by the amended claims.

8. The Appeal Brief filed on 11-09-04 points out the importance of the inheritance order between the three options and provides reasons for the specific order, thereby overcoming the prior art.

9. The prior art of record, MageLang Institute, Swing Short Course, Part 1, hereinafter MageLang, Java Platform 1.2 API Specification, hereinafter JavaSPEC, JavaOne's Java Foundation Classes (a.k.a. "Swing") Component Architecture, hereinafter JavaOne, Bogdan, Patent #6,191,790 (Inheritable Property Shading System for Three-Dimensional Rendering of User Interface Controls), and Mixing heavy and light components, by Amy Fowler, hereinafter MSUN, teaches a system of components evoked during runtime by an application program running under an operating system to display a parent (parent window) and child object (the button). The background color of the JButton being able to be set directly, but if not set its default is invisible (showing the parents color). Building default tables to store default colors, fonts, icons and borders for components, and that all subsequent objects will use the new values. The ability to set the look and feel to Metal, which presents the same look and feel, no matter what operating system it is running on. Initializing the colors of the background to the default color from the defaults table. The Bogdan reference by itself teaches inheritable properties, including background color, in which selection can be made as to which member, either the parent or the global system setting, the child's background color will be derived from. The applicant amended the claims, from their original representation, to show that the order of inheritance is of particular importance: Claim 1 was amended to include the limitation that "the child object is displayed in accordance with the following background color inheritance order:", Claim 8 was amended to include the limitation that "the method is adapted to display the child object in accordance with the following background color inheritance order:", Claim 15 was amended to include the limitation that "the child object is displayed by the system of software components in accordance with the following background color inheritance order." Though Bogdan teaches all of the steps in the inheritance, it is acknowledged that Bogdan doesn't teach the specific order of operations as that of the presently claimed invention.

10. The prior art of record does not teach or fairly suggest the combination as presented by independent claims 1, 8, and 15.

11. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
